

Why Study Languages Talk- The Hurst Community College, Basingstoke

It was a great privilege to go and talk about our passion for languages and students were very interested in hearing about the range of opportunities that studying a language can offer. Students were especially interested in hearing about the year abroad which is part of a university language course and were amazed at the vast range of career options that languages can lead to. Students were polite and listened carefully, and some approached us to ask questions about particular languages and our experiences of studying a language. The feedback we received was that our presentation left the students with much to think about and that it had made them realise that studying a language at GCSE can provide the foundations for future language study, travelling, or working abroad. All the school staff were very welcoming and friendly and it was a pleasure for us to present.

George

Final year, BA Spanish