November highlights....

JAZZ

Christian Scott Atunde Adjuah

Thursday 16 November 8pm

This extraordinary musician has just released the third instalment of a trio of albums commemorating the 100th anniversary of the first jazz recordings.

Collectively titled The Centennial Trilogy, the final album in the series, The Emancipation Procrastination, continues the theme, stretching the work of Trap music with West African beats and New Orleans styles – Christian's music speaks to a myriad of issues from xenophobia to gender equality, evaluating the social political realities of the world using sound.

CLASSICAL PIANO

Cédric Tiberghien

Tuesday 14 November 8pm

Renowned for his award-winning discs for Hyperion as both a soloist and recording partner with violinist Alina Ibragimova, Cédric Tiberghien begins his Turner Sims debut with Prokofiev's set of miniatures, each reflecting a different mood.

The Liszt selection includes the composer's homage to Wagner following his stay with him in Venice, whilst the recital ends with Mussorgsky's popular work, a set of musical portraits composed as a memorial to the work of his close artist friend Hartmann.
